

To our Residents – SNOW ALERT FOR South Coatesville

We are providing this communication about the expected snowstorm this coming weekend. The Borough has been watching and receiving weather updates for the last few days, and we know that many of you are also watching the local news outlets closely. We want to inform you that we are preparing for the storm in every way possible. This storm has the potential to be extreme with heavy snow fall, ice, high winds, and extremely cold temperatures.

The Borough of SC, like many others in our area and across the state have challenges with salt levels being depleted due the snow and ice events we have already experienced. We want you to know we have replenished our Salt capacity and are prepared to the maximum extent possible. The current forecast is for us to receive anywhere from 6 to 12 inches of snow with some early predictions indicating much more than 12 inches. The snow is expected to begin close to midnight on Saturday and continue all day Sunday. This forecast is coming through multiple news outlets and as of today, Thursday, it is still difficult to be more accurate with how much snow we will receive, and you may hear different numbers from different stations.

We should all take steps to be as prepared as possible in our homes. We advise residents to consider the following:

1. Stock up on batteries and essential supplies as may be needed.
2. Check the news for updates.
3. Clear vehicles from any streets that are designated 'NO PARKING' during snow events. We ask everyone as much as possible to park off the street to allow the plow trucks easy passage.
4. limit travel during and immediately after the storm to allow time to clear roads.

Stay safe !

Borough Council President
